May's Speaker Ben D'Andrea

"Photographing Mosaic Art"

Ben D'Andrea bio:

Ben began taking pictures at the ripe old age of 6, it's been a passion ever since. He's had a studio where he did all types of imagery and later on gravitated towards the commercial side of photography.

He spent many years as a managing partner of two internationally trading stock photography agencies in San Diego, Denver and New York City. He has represented at least 3,000 photographers over the years as their picture agent. He went on to serve on the Board of Directors of the Picture Archive Council of America.

He was Director of Photography for the Professional Bull Riders and ran a photography learning group with over 1,400 members in Denver. He's judged hundreds of competitions over the years and is now a Certified Judge for the Florida Camera Club Council.

Working in photography for so many years has not diminished his love of it as a hobby too. His favorite picture is always the next one he's going to take.
